STOVES! STOVES!

Hayes is at work on his veto of the Army Appropriation Bill. He will veto all bills with riders on them.

The Weather Bureau indications for the Pacific coast regions are continued cloudy weather with occasional rains.

John P. Phair, hanged in Vermont on Thursday last, left a statement declaring his innocence, and that justice was not done him.

The statement that the negroes along the Rappahannock river have caught the emigration fever is without the slightest foundation.

A dispatch from Alexandria says a great fire is raging in Cairo and that it has destroyed blocks of buildings hundreds of yards long.

Dr. Carver telegraphs the Herald that he has made arrangements for shooting a match at Sandringham next Tuesday, stating that the Prince of Wales will be present.

Louisa Wallace (colored), convicted in Washington of the murder of her infant child in April, 1878, has been sentenced to be hanged on the 20th of June.

The pugilists Dwyer and Elliott met at the Clipper office yesterday and deposited $500, the final payment on the stakes for their contest in the ring, which will come off in Canada on May 8th.

An attempt was made on the Emperor's life while he was walking near the palace at St. Petersburg Sunday. The assassin discharged five shots at the Czar, but none of them took effect. The assassin was arrested.

The electric light is evidently making progress. One or two places of amusement in the Bowers were lighted last night for the first time in that way. The New York Postoffice will be so lighted next week.

A shell buried in the road exploded near Prince Milan while he was walking at Nish on Tuesday. His Aide-de-Camp was wounded. It is not known whether the explosion was the result of a plot to assassinate the Prince or not.

Hazekiah Shaffer, sentenced to be hanged on Thursday in Chambersburg, Pa., for murder, will probably escape the gallows. His wife opened the veins in his legs and arms with the wire of a broom-handle yesterday. His recovery is doubtful.

General Edward N. Beale is negotiating with parties abroad for the sale of his estates in Southern California, which are said to embrace 200,000 acres of the choicest lands in that section. The Herald also intimates that a largely developed scheme of colonization is contemplated in connection with these negotiations.

A woman residing in South Cottonwood brought to St. Luke a few days since the remains of her child, which died of malignant diphtheria. Having no coffin, the body was placed in a rough box and the coffin was purchased in the city, when the box was carelessly thrown away, where three children found and played in it, all of whom have since died of diphtheria.

The Southwestern Rate Association, the best maintained railroad pool ever formed in the West, collapsed Saturday. The prime cause was the refusal of the St. Louis roads to grant the new extension of the Chicago & Alton Railroad to Kansas City its due proportion of traffic. They refused to arbitrate matters, instigated it is claimed, by stock jobber in New York.

Cannon, the Indian scout, says the Cheyennes and Arapahoes are sulky, and will bear close watching. The capture and turning over to the Cheyenne Chiefs who led the raid last year caused a great deal of dissatisfaction in the tribe, and the other tribes sympathize with them. Cannon thinks they can be quieted, however, and kept on their reservation, if early and important measures are taken.

A correspondent of the "Tribune at Leadville" writes that miners are flocking to the rich fields of that region at the rate of 800 per week. Ore is taken out worth $3 a pound. It is thought the locality of the present camp will yield $36,000,000 worth of the precious metals per year, and that there are valleys and ranges adjacent to the camp enormously rich in mines which have not yet been fully explored.

At Troy, N. Y., the iron works are all busy. Twelve hundred and fifty tons of steel rails are produced by the Bessemer works weekly, an unexampled product. A large extension will be made to the Burden works, and it is reported that E. Corning & Co. contemplate an addition to their extensive establishment. All the foundries are running and a first class season is anticipated by stove manufacturers. The linen goods business, in all its branches, promises well. All the manufacturers expect a hurried and profitable season.

Yorke Wood came to New Orleans in the cell of a police station in New Orleans. Although he had been rather careless in his habits, this result of a spree shocked and surprised him. He immediately hanged himself with a handkerchief to the grating of the door.

THE BEACONSFIELD Administration has spent $18,000,000 on law and justice, $17,500,000 on the national debt for interest and management, $39,900,000 for reduction of debt, and $29,500,000 for public education more than the previous government during the same period of five years.

ANOTHER USE FOR THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.—The Excelsior Water and Gravel Mining Company have just put into successful operation, in their Deer Creek mine, the Brush patent electric light the first ever introduced in a hydraulic claim. This light will enable them to work night as well as days. The Excelsior people have a first-class gravel property which is being worked as a private corporation and is now a dividend proposition. Other hydraulic companies will do well to follow the example of the Excelsior in the matter of the light.

NATIONAL EMIGRATION AID SOCIETY.—The organization of the National Emigration Aid Society has been further perfected by the choice of a National Executive Committee, consisting of the following gentlemen:—Senator Windom, President; Senators Hamlin, Chandler and Teller; Representatives Garfield, Charles E. Williams and Jorgensen; William E. Chandler, George C. Gorham, Joseph H. Rainey, of South Carolina; the Rev. J. E. Rankin, A. M. Clapp, John R. Lynch, of Mississippi; J. M. Edwards, Professor R. T. Greener (secretary), M. M. Holland, J. M. Adams, M. Howard, H. W. Mendenhall and O. S. B. Wall. It was decided to address a letter to a certain number of gentlemen, with a view of forming a national executive committee, stating simply the purposes and objects of the organization, which are for regulating emigration from the South to the West. In view of the necessity of immediate assistance to persons already emigrating, the committee will be prepared to announce soon the name of the treasurer, to whom contributions may be sent.

SINGULAR FIRM.

This is just a little the worst on Delaware we ever read. We copy from the Tuscarora Times-Review.

There is rather a curious firm operating in Independence Valley. It is composed of an American and Chinaman, who are engaged in the sage brush fuel business. They employ a number of Chinese cutters, and all hands live together in a small cabin in the foot hills on the other side of the valley. The American sits at the table with his heathen companions and partakes of the same fare. He seldom comes to town, but entrusts all of the business of the firm to his celestial partner, in whom he appears to repose the utmost confidence. He is a native of Delaware, and is said to be well educated and to possess more than an average amount of general intelligence. While he does not particularly avoid, he by no means seeks the companionship of white men, and seems perfectly contented with the society of his moon-eyed associates. The partnership has existed for nearly a year and was formed soon after the arrival of the Delawarean here from his native State.

A London dispatch, of March 20th, conveys the subjoined:

During the past week there has been a most interesting and important sale at the rooms of Christie, Manson & Woods, of the autograph letters, official documents and portraits referring to Napoleon and his family, including the Dawson collection, which concerned the entire history of the captivity of Napoleon at St. Helena, purchased by Baron Heath and afterward enlarged by him. The Napoleon collection was bound up in three large quarto volumes, elaborately ornamented with the arms of the Emperor and the bee at the corners and back.

The autographs, says the News, were, with one exception, the minutes which Bonaparte had written on the margins of various official documents, all in his irregularly scribbled and illegible hand, very brief and to the purpose. The one letter to which special interest attached was from him to the Empress Josephine, but this, to the surprise of everybody, could not be found in its place in the volume, and though every effort was made to find it, it was not discovered until just before the hour of sale, when fortunately it was found among a great number of loose letters, and thus the collection was made complete, and no doubt brought a much higher sum than it would have sold for without this letter. It was, however, a very short one, ten or twelve lines, written from Aix, referring to his movements with the army, and the only points of general interest in it were that he addressed her as his "chere femme," referred to her as the waters at Aix, which he was glad she continued, and was sure they would do her good. As for himself, he was "en tres bonne sante;" and Eugene, who was with him, was also well. Another letter of peculiar interest was one of five or six lines only, from the Empress Marie Louise to the Baron de Wessenberg, dated April 15, 1815, inquiring, "S'il est vrai que le Comte Nieppieg a eu la jambe cassée. J'espere que cela n'est pas vrai, cela me facherait." At this time, then, she was at least interested about Count Nieppieg, who afterward became her husband, although at the moment Napoleon was engrossed in his preparations to fight the armies of the allies. There were but few bidders, however, for the collection, and it was knocked down speedily at the sum of $451 10s., the buyer giving the name of Smith.

The Philadelphia Ledger of a recent date says: "The foreign trade of Philadelphia seems, from the arrivals of vessels at this port, to be increasing rapidly, but there is a falling off in the coastwise trade, which leaves a total gain of thirty-five vessels in the number of foreign and coastwise arrivals as compared with March of last year. The number of vessels from foreign ports which arrived at this port last month is nearly twice as great as the number in March, 1878, the increase in numbers being 108. It is gratifying to note that there has been an increase in the number of steamships in both the foreign and coastwise trade—of eight in the former and thirteen in the latter—and that the general increase is chiefly in the larger craft."

LITTLE pigs in gold and silver are now worn by everybody in Vienna as jewelry. Pins, charms, brooches, stick handles—everything is for the moment porcine. The Court began, and the rest of the world naturally followed the lead. The fashion has come from Germany, and was introduced to commemorate the happy escapes of the Emperor William from all the risks and dangers he has lately run, and his "Schweins' pluck," or pig's luck—meaning splendid luck—as the German phrase goes, in coming out of it all so well.

As a SUBSTITUTE for blasting gunpowder in fiery coal mines, it is now proposed to use unslacked lime compressed into cartridges and well stamped down into the bore-holes. Its dislodging power is to be brought into play by pouring water on the lime, so as to cause it to expand in slaking itself. It is claimed for this harmless mode of blasting that it will neither vitiate the atmosphere, shatter the coal nor endanger the lives of the colliers.

A WITTY lady was once told by a gentleman of her acquaintance "that he must have been born with a silver spoon in his mouth." She looked at him carefully, and, upon realizing the size of his mouth, replied: "I don't doubt it; but it must have been a soup-ladle."

At New Albany, the chief manufacturing city of Ohio, a highly encouraging condition of affairs is reported by the Cincinnati Gazette. All the factories are full of orders and running on full time.

Boston's boot and shoe trade is fairly active. Readymade goods are reported to be in demand for immediate delivery, and jobbers who are able to fill orders from stock on hand are said to be doing a good business.

More than one hundred thousand tons of Algerian and Spanish iron ore will be imported into the United States this year. This ore is going as far West as Harrisburg, and may probably reach Johnstown, in competition with Lake Superior.

Philadelphia, which eight years ago had only sixteen shoe factories, has now over one hundred and forty. Their annual production is estimated at forty-eight million pairs. At the present time work is very brisk and the employees are receiving higher wages than they have in many years.

One good word is spoken for Buford, the Kentucky assassin. When ex-President Andrew Johnson went to Lexington in 1861 he found the famous raider, John Morgan, there and the town swarming with Southern sympathizers. Johnson was put forward by a few Unionists to make a speech, but the crowd jostled and pushed him and swore that he should not open his lips. Buford shoved his way to the front of the stand, and brandishing a revolver, declared that he would kill the first man who dared to interrupt the Champion of Northern rights. And Johnson poured out Union eloquence for an hour.
